Welcome Family, Friends, and Colleagues!

It is with great pleasure that I welcome you to Foxtoberfest – our second annual fundraising event for Fox GERI. Since it's inception in 2007, I have been both honored and proud to lead an organization that provides high quality educational services to the public on geriatric health care related issues. Advocating for and servicing our aging population through education and research continues to be both motivating and inspiring for me.

This fundraising event for Fox GERI could not have been possible without your support! I thank you for your attendance and your donations. I am confident you will have an enjoyable evening of festive food, fun, and entertainment.

I am simply overwhelmed by the amount of genuine help and support I have received to pull this event together. My sincere thanks to all our sponsors, particularly the McIntyre Group, Advanced Benefit Advisors Inc., and TD Bank. My colleagues at Fox Rehabilitation have offered hours of their own time in coordinating the event, raising money, creating donation baskets, and promoting the event. Please be sure to read the event program to learn more about our sponsors, friends, supporters, vendors, and volunteers! I am so grateful for your collaboration in this event.

Please enjoy the evening. To learn more about Fox GERI, please do not hesitate to contact me at 1 877 407 3469 or visit us at foxgeri.org.

With Warm Regards,

ABOUT FOX GERI

Fox GERI: Geriatric Education & Research Institute, a not-for-profit 501(c)3 company was founded in 2007 with the mission to provide high quality educational services to the public on health care related issues important to the geriatric population and to advance the fields of geriatric rehabilitation and medicine through education of health care professionals and collaborative clinical research.

Through great volunteer effort, Fox GERI will provide more than 300 FREE educational seminars to the public, reaching over 4,400 people in 2010.

Fox GERI will provide 12 accredited continuing education seminars on geriatric specific topics to physicians, nurses, social workers, physical and occupational therapists, and administrators in 2010. Attendees of our accredited continuing education seminars on geriatric specific topics for health care professionals are receiving current evidence-based information and improving the way they provide health care. "In 20+ years of being a social worker, this course (on dementia) is the best one I have ever attended." "The course on therapeutic exercise has changed the way that I practice physical therapy. I have challenged my patients more, and they have gotten better outcomes than I could have imagined."

To meet the needs of the patients and caregivers of people with dementia, Fox GERI collaborated with the Jefferson Center of Applied Research of Aging and Health to translate an evidence-based occupational therapy intervention, Skills2Care (formerly known as ESP: Environmental Skill Building Program), from the research environment to the real-world, reimbursable environment. In 2009, our project won the Rosalynn Carter Institute for Caregiving Special Merit Award (Johnson & Johnson). In 2010, our project won the National Family Caregiving Award from the National Alliance for Caregiving (MetLife Foundation). This project has also been recognized by the U.S. Department of Health and Human Services, and is a 2010 SAMHSA Science to Service award finalist (winners will be announced in November 2010).
